

Jackie Robinson Foundation

Established in 1973 by Rachel Robinson to perpetuate the memory of her husband, the Jackie Robinson Foundation (JRF), a public, non-profit organization, administers one of the nation's premier education and leadership development programs for minority students. In addition to financial assistance, JRF offers a comprehensive set of support services including year-round mentoring, job placement, career guidance, leadership training and practical life skills. JRF's celebrated four-year program results in a nearly 100% graduation rate, more than twice the national average for African American college students. The 1,450 JRF alumni are proven leaders in their communities and across a broad range of professional fields – true ambassadors of Jackie Robinson's legacy. Historically, JRF has provided over $65 million in grants and direct program support to students who have attended over 225 different colleges and universities across the country. The Foundation is currently engaged in building the Jackie Robinson Museum to inspire and to educate visitors of all generations about Jackie Robinson's courageous societal impact both on and off the field.